UPDATED WEB SITE PROVIDES FAST, FREE LEGAL RESOURCE

Lawfacts.Org Links to More Than 1,000 Sites That Touch Nearly Every Practice of Law

ORLANDO, Fla. (September 12, 2006) – LawFacts.org is a free online resource that provides quick links to more than 1,160 information sites useful to Central Florida’s legal community. Developed and maintained by the Orlando law firm Dellecker, Wilson, King, McKenna & Ruffier, LawFacts.org was re-designed recently to accommodate the growing number of links added to the site.

“We originally created LawFacts.org as a simple and organized web site that our lawyers and staff could use every day in our practice,” said firm partner Samuel King. In 2002, the firm started sharing the site with its peers in the legal community and adding additional links that others found useful.

“The original site had become bulky and difficult to manage as new links were added over the years,” King said. Visitors to the re-designed site will find it easier to navigate and better organized into the following categories: courts and cases, laws and regulations, government bodies, people and places, and resources and references.

Examples of wide variety of information lawyers and others will find on the site include:

- Information on sexual offenders and predators in Florida
- National guidelines for medical standards of care
- Ballistic and DNA forensic information
- Medical diagnostic codes listed by diagnosis or IDC9 number
- Auto insurance loss results and crashworthiness ratings by make, model and year
- Florida Supreme Court opinions dating back to 1989
- Detailed information about the past performance of Medicare and Medicaid certified nursing homes nationwide
- Drug standards and information for all prescription and over-the-counter medicines, dietary supplements and other healthcare products manufactured and sold in the U.S.
- Statistical data on issues ranging from abortion to wife abuse
